Bulldogs on the Move at School

No where to go! Nothing to do! Yet in spite of these remarks, BHS students were constantly on the move — at school, in the community, in Indianapolis, and virtually around the world. Starting with that half asleep dash to beat the first period tardy bell, the 'Dogs continued from period to period fighting the crowds in the halls with quick stops at lockers and restrooms. Whether because of no breakfast, sugar fits, or lunch with that favorite person, students found a burst of energy saved up especially for the race to be first in lunch line. Having succeeded in this, they prepared to recharge their batteries for the most important activity of the day — racing for the parking lot to beat their friends and the buses to Odell Street. These activities were only the prelude to the wide variety of jobs and activities which would take them far from the confines of BHS.

Bulldogs on the Move in Recreation

I'm bored!" How many times had students at BHS used this worn-out phrase? The occasions were countless. Even though many students complained of boredom, some found ways to shun this inevitable disease — hobbies! From earth to sky and everything in between, students found things to tickle their fancies and delight their senses. Some daring students tried their luck at some off-the-wall activities such as parasailing and cliff rapelling. Junior Sara Ashby, an amateur cliff rappeller, commented on her experiences in the sport: "I thought cliff rapelling was very exciting. It was neat to be able to jump off a cliff without falling." However, not all activities had to be in such exciting and adventurous settings as in the sky or on a mountainside. Some, such as skateboarding and snow-skiing, were done right outside the school doors. These activities were equally as challenging yet they were closer to home and more common to BHS students.

Dennis Dill

Moving Around in Foreign Exchange

What a wonderful way to relieve the boredom of doing the same old thing day after day — travel! Whether for a vacation, for learning the language and soaking up the culture, or a move by the family, travel abroad offered a wide variety of new experiences for the BHS students. Junior Eric Leversen was fortunate enough to spend a portion of last year in Singapore with his father. When asked if he would want to live there permanently, he replied, "Yes, if I could bring my friends and family with me. It's a great place." In a different type of situation, sophomore Angela Foor spent part of her summer in Mexico with the family of Ariadna Apodaca, a foreign exchange student from last year. But for those who did not have these opportunities, there was no excuse for boredom. With the coming of two foreign exchange students to BHS, everyone had the chance to experience a new culture through friendship with these students. Their arrival brought a welcome excitement and enrichment to the activities of the school and community.

Indy on the Move

What's the newest word in innovation and excitement? Yes, you guessed it — Indianapolis! Not only has Indy become known as the amateur sports capital across the country, but it also has done much to improve the entertainment around the city. New and exciting additions to the community, such as the newly renovated Union Station, the nostalgic trolleys, and the horse and carriage rides around the town, have made the downtown area the center of attention. Plans for a new zoo have been made and are now in action. Because of the addition of the zoo to White River Park, the zoo will double in size and attractions, making it comparable to reputable, large city zoos around the country. Also ahead for Indy is the hosting of the Pan Am Games in 1988. Through hosting the games, Indy will not only gain recognition country-wide, but will also bring much attention to the quickly changing downtown area. Although Indy is no New York City or

Los Angeles, it is definitely turning heads with its exciting improvements and future plans.

Moving Toward Excellence

With the emphasis of today on excellence, much of the world strove harder and worked longer to achieve a higher standard in all endeavors. BHS followed this trend in its effort to achieve a higher excellence in education by stressing both course requirements and excellence in teaching. James Evans was one who dedicated himself to achieving excellence in his classroom and in his associations with his students. Junior Brian Gibson said this about Mr. Evans and his Biology II class: "He always made something fun, no matter how boring it could be."

Mr. Evans came to Brownsburg as a science and biology teacher after graduating from Van Buren High School and Indiana State University. Since his first teaching days 16 years ago, he progressed to head of the Science Department. The latest of his achievements included the opening of a new summer school class, Ecology, and on clear nights, his outside observatory. During spring break, he also accompanied a group of students to the Florida Keys to work at a marine biology station. In addition to his school activities he enjoyed photography and auto mechanics.

The Rain Won't Dampen Our Spirit!

What's the highlight of the fall for BHS students? Homecoming, of course! It started with Spirit Week with students dressing up to follow the theme proposed by the Student Council. Monday was Hawaiian Day, Tuesday Nerd Day, Wednesday Class Spirit Day, Thursday Dress-Up Day, and Friday Purple and White Day. Thursday was the annual Powder Puff game. The Seniors and Freshmen came away the victors in the game. After a slow week full of rain, Friday finally arrived. At half-time the placing of floats was announced. Winning this competition were the Juniors. Then came the announcement of the new Queen, Nicky Klein. To end a slightly wet, but exciting evening, the Bulldogs downed Western Boone 47 to 0.

Moving to the Top

Mike Samide

For these students there was never a dull moment! Whether participating in an activity or just doing homework, these seniors put their all into the task. Although they were driven by time and their desires, they never failed to handle the heavy pressures of their everyday lives.

These seniors were nominated by their fellow classmates for their faster paces, winning attitudes, and involvement in school activities. Then, the nominees were selected by a faculty vote. Because of a tie between two students, eleven instead of the traditional ten made the roster. Even though not all of these students were outstanding in every area of school life, they all made contributions to the school in different ways. Seven of the eleven were varsity athletes, five were class officers, and over half won academic letters.

Because of their willingness to work harder and strive for more, these seniors achieved success. Although the secrets of their successes varied, Joanie Garrison shared a benefactor of her success: "One of the things that has helped me out most of all is my parents."

Showing creative style

A wide variety of creative clubs gave students new ways to express themselves. Once again the Creative Writing Club produced a literary magazine not included in the yearbook. Thespian members spent most of the year preparing two theatrical productions. The foreign language clubs had many activities from which to choose. German students traveled to such places as Milwaukee to experience first hand German culture. They also enjoyed the Oktoberfest locally. Members of the JCL found themselves involved in activities at BHS and also on the state and national levels. When JCLer Elisa Thompson was asked why she enjoyed being in Latin Club, she replied, "Through my club I get to do extra activities and meet new people." No one could deny that creativity did not exist at BHS.

Working for others through service

Working for others, helping the community, being an individual — all of these describe service clubs at BHS. Through their many activities Key Club, National Honor Society, Student Council and SADD made BHS and the community a better place. Key Club put up street signs, collected soup labels, and painted fire hydrants during the past year. SADD proved they were against drinking and driving. Student Council helped throughout the year by sponsoring dances, canned food drives, and other community services. When asked why she enjoyed being Student Council advisor, Mrs. Bloomer said, "It gives me a chance to work with the best of the student body." National Honor Society worked throughout the year to better the community and the school. On Valentines Day members sold carnations to the students. Through their activities these clubs helped the school and community become a better place.

Excellence through competition

Through the club program, students were able to become involved in competition either directly or indirectly. For those who were interested in academic quizzing, the Brain Game offered the opportunity to compete on Channel 13 television with host Bob Gregory. This year there was another type of academic contest — Spell Bowl. The ten person team plus alternates had a most impressive debut, winning the regionals and placing second in the state meet. As a prelude to a team next year, students considered competition in the Academic Decathlon. But, competition was not limited only to direct involvement. Many of the competitive teams needed booster groups to cheer them on, raise funds, and perform many jobs which needed to be done. One of the most visible of these groups was the Wrestlettes. Without these girls under the leadership of Mr. Crebbe, the wrestling program would not have enjoyed the success which it experienced.

Opportunities for fellowship and service

There was more to life than school-sponsored activities for many students. Church-related activities both during the week and on the weekends rated high on the list of things to do. Youth groups provided the opportunity for students to interact with other BHS students as well as those from various area high schools. The obvious reason for attending was for fun — informal group discussions, parties, and retreats. But there was a deeper motive for joining. These groups offered the possibility for service to the church and community. Performing a wide range of duties from keeping the nursery and ushering, to being a part of mission tours, students found great source of enjoyment and fulfillment. "I like being in the youth group because of the people and the fellowship," said senior Gaye Unruh. "We have fun when we are together."

JUNIOR MISS

T eas, interviews, quicky suppers and practice, practice, practice — this was the week of the Junior Miss pageant. During the long grueling rehearsals the ten girls prepared for competition in the areas of physical fitness, poise and personality, and talent. When asked why she had decided to be in Junior Miss, Jennifer Perry replied, "... I thought it would be fun and I wanted to do something exciting and something I could remember my senior year." By Saturday night, November 22, the girls were ready. Throughout the evening the girls individually introduced themselves to the audience and judges, introduced each other, and presented their talents. In addition, they sang, danced, and performed a physical fitness routine as a group. As the judges deliberated, the audience enjoyed special entertainment by the reigning Junior Miss Jodi Wilson and others. And then came the announcement of the winners. Paula Morgan received not only the Poise and Personality Award but also Scholastic Achievement. Shari Edwards was the winner of the Youth Fitness Award and also the Spirit of Junior Miss, an award voted on by the girls in the pageant. In addition to winning the Creative and Performing Arts Award, Andrea Burns was named second runner-up. First runner-up was Gaye Unruh. The coveted honor of Brownsburg Junior Miss belonged to Tina Owens.

PEOPLE

Leading the school to a productive year

A word from the Wise Old Bulldog'' was heard throughout the halls of BHS by many and was found to be a comforting quote from Principal Jill Ellsberry. Mr. Ellsberry and Assitant Principals Steve Heck, Jim Acton, and Don Bauchert kept the school running smoothly from the inside while the School Board and Superintendents ran the school from a far. The administrators and staff had hardly completed meetings with the North Central evaluation committee when they were caught in a frenzy of meetings with architects about the upcoming expansion of the school.

These long range plans were coupled with immediate changes within the school. Mrs. Linda Davidson joined the staff as a new secretary. The moving of the clinic from the guidance office to a separate room necessitated a move to a new office for Mr. Shepherd. To alleviate attendance problems, not only were records computerized, but also for the first time an administrator was put in charge of student attendance. With this change, Mr. Acton moved across the hall, the reception area was remodeled and the conference room was located off the main office. Over the past year the school underwent many changes and with the support of the administration the school functioned smoothly.

Keeping it all together

Answering phones. Typing. these were the least of the secretaries work load. Duties of this type were assumed by the student receptionists so that the office secretaries could become the link in communication between the administration, faculty, student body, and parents. Assistant principal Mr. Heck echoed this comment, "Mrs. Davison is an integral part of the support/administrative team. She is a vital link between me and the teaching staff as well as the parent community. Her conscientious efforts are an important aspect to our effectiveness."

In other offices throughout the school, office personnel worked with the students to give help and offer guidance. The nurse gave aid to those who were ill.

The guidance office helped students with personal problems and aided in making career decisions with a new computer and program. These services were just a few of many offered to assist the student body.

Classes of today becoming careers in the future.

Creative Arts had the most diverse range of topics in its department of all the different areas of study in the school. The Creative Arts section included practical classes such as the home ec courses and classes such as Metals, Drafting, Electricity, and Plastics which taught trades that might later become a career for some students. The Plastics teacher, Mr. Brian Stader, said, "Plastics is a rapid growing industry and knowledge of plastic materials and molding processes will help the technical student in the available job markets." For the talented student, the Creative Arts department offered band, choral music, and artistic skills. Not only was the Creative Arts department teaching practical skills, but it also offered a wide array of interesting classes.

New courses meeting needs of tomorrow

I'm sure, too.", "Don't look down!", "Look at your books!", "Quit looking!". These are just a few of many quotes that students heard from the various teachers of the Business Department. The Business Department offered courses dealing with accounting, typing, marketing, and office machines. Some classes new to the Business Department curriculum this year were Word Processing and Computerized Accounting. When asked what students were learning in Word Processing, Mrs. Money-maker replied, "The students are learning how to operate one of the newest, most popular word processing programs, WORDPERFECT, on a micro computer. The students will learn how to insert all types of business communications using this program."

With the new classes added to the Business Department, students learned skills which would help prepare them for the future in the business job market.

"I've lost my file!" Senior Julie McDowell works with a computer in Intensive Office Lab while Mrs. Money-maker helps her retrieve a lost file.

Places to go and Things to do

To officers, leading the class is fun, but a challenge.

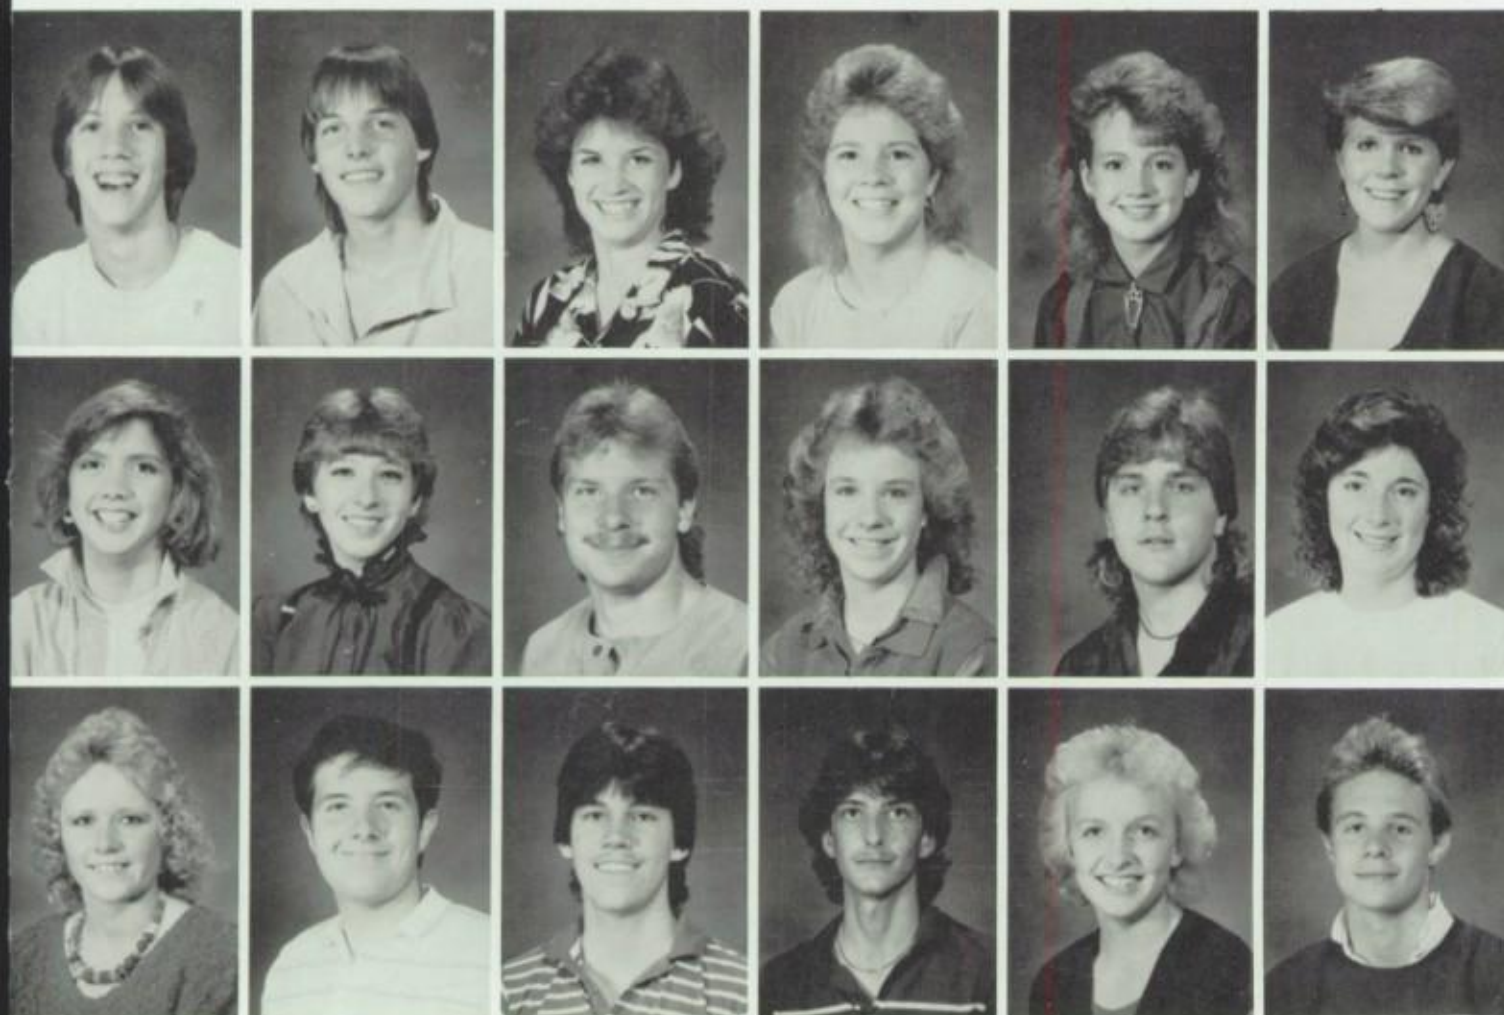

Dan Cull

What do the prom, PSAT, and the dreaded term paper have in common? They were all associated with the junior class at BHS. With all of these activities on their minds, the juniors looked to their class officers Bobby Archer — president, Jennifer Lyon — vice president, Crickett Starkey — secretary, and Susie Fierek — treasurer, to make their junior year the best. It was the officers' job to get class support in making flowers and building their homecoming float. The work paid off in a first place finish. The main concern of the class, according to Bobby, was planning and paying for the Jr.-Sr. Prom. "We have to sell magazines to raise money for the Prom." Although the officers were busy helping the class, they all found time to do other extra-curricular activities including basketball, cheerleading, powder puff and community projects.

Places to go and Things to do

To animal lovers, the zoo is good entertainment

Lions and tigers and bears were not the only things Dorothy would have been scared of if she had visited the Indianapolis Zoo. The zoo was home to many other animals including zebras, gorillas, and camels. July 15 through August 15 the zoo's major attraction was the koala from the San Diego Zoo. It was the first time a koala had been in the state of Indiana and the exhibit proved to be fun as well as educational. The new Indianapolis Zoo received much publicity as the final plans and the actual building materialized. According to Crystal Jones, zoo employee, "The new zoo, a part of the White River State Park, will be three times larger than the current zoo." Included in the expansion were the Waters Complex, displaying sea lions, and Animal Encounters, an area for animal shows and demonstrations.

Places to go and Things to do

To equestrians, "horsing around" is serious business.

It's something that all little boys and girls dream of . . . owning a horse. Many BHS students spent endless hours after school and on weekends grooming, training, and showing horses. This involved not only brushing and exercising horses but cleaning the stalls as well. Although owning a horse was a great responsibility, the final results were extremely fulfilling. Lisa Steuerwald, senior, said,

"The most interesting thing is watching a foal grow up and become a winning show horse." The 4-H sponsored state horse show tested many of the Hendricks County riders with those from all over the state and proved to be an important learning experience.

Easy does it Haltering horses like Bey Max is just one of senior Lisa Steuerwald's responsibilities at Magic Arabians.

To thrillseekers, Kings Island provides excitement

The Beast! The Racer! The world's first stand-up roller coaster, King Cobra! These were just a few of the rides that attracted people to Kings Island in Cincinnati this year. Junior Genie Mahoney stated, "I felt exhilarated. I enjoy those kinds of rides." The Skylab, the Zephyr, and Dodge 'Em were three new rides introduced this season. For those "fortunate" enough to spend some time with younger brothers and sisters, Hanna-Barbara Land had the Beastie, Smurf TV, and the Witch's Cauldron.

The older crowd enjoyed a variety of live shows including a dolphin show and various musicals. As always, members of senior classes from all over the Midwest went to Kings Island for Grad Night, featuring a variety of rock concerts provided by the park. Many of the seniors at BHS participated in this annual festivity.

Places to go and Things to do

To travelers, their world knows no limits.

Caio! Buenos Dias! Bonjour! Guten Tag! These sounded familiar to a number of BHS students who visited foreign countries this year. Although these travelers expected to learn much about other countries and their cultures, some were disappointed. Kim McIntyre, junior, commented, "Most of the cities were dirty and crowded." The students, once they adjusted to the changes, enjoyed the sight seeing, shopping, and tasting different foods. These travelers spent much of their time taking pictures, making new friends, and taking in the scenery. The hours spent back at school on the seemingly useless language study paid off when they were able to speak with the natives. The BHS travelers returned with many souvenirs, new friends, and great memories.

Paris in the springtime Notre Dame towers above many other tourist attractions.

To all ages, Union Station is a "must-see".

Bored? Hungry? or just needing to spend a few bucks? Then Union Station was the place to go. Numerous life-size statues of people long gone stood as reminders of the days of the original Union Station. Chandeliers, hung from the ceiling, cobble floors and large wooden pillars added to the feeling of history. But Union Station was not only for reliving the past; it also had many popular and trendy shops. Soundtracks, a recording studio, allowed anyone to become a rock star for a while; the Hat

Shoppe, according to junior Amy Steinbruegge, is "a unique store and has a huge variety of hats." The year round Christmas shop kept the Christmas spirit alive throughout the seasons. In addition to the specialty shops, it had a wide variety of restaurants, from the elegant Norman's, featuring steaks and ribs, to the more informal food court, featuring foods from all over the world. Union Station had plenty to fascinate the youngest children and to help the oldest adults remember "the good 'ol days".

Figuring foundations for the future

"It's a little shaky! Talk to yourself! Let's do that after lunch! Overachievers! Ma'am and sir!" Have these sayings been heard before? Maybe when solving an equation, multiplying binomials, or writing a computer program students overheard these comments. With the addition this year of Mr. Minnick from the junior high, the math department was able to alleviate somewhat the overcrowding in its classes. General computer classes continued to provide practical skills with additional courses reaching over into the business and industrial technology fields. Mr. Stucker had this to say about students in his computer classes. "They are acquiring programming skills in the BASIC programming language and overall computer literacy. Students also learn to think in a logical manner and attempt to analyze their thought processes. Their computer experience will also provide a good background for their everyday needs and experiences of the future."

Sophomore Dawn Rose applies math skills and logic to "string art" while Mrs. Ragsdale gives some assistance.

Experimenting with theories and principles

"Children!", "I reckon," "Wipe that smile off your face," "I'll shave your heads bald," "Critters and stuff," "All right folks!" Students heard these comments as they learned scientific skills that could possibly change the future. As said by Mrs. Debbie Teuscher about her classes, "Physical science students are studying chemistry right now, including atomic theory and the periodic table." Two new teachers, Mrs. Molly Williams and Mrs. Debbie Teuscher, joined the science department to help the problem of overcrowded classes. Mrs. Teuscher taught Physical Science, a freshman science course, in which students gained knowledge of the world around them. The science department offered a wide range of classes from Physical Science to Biology to Chemistry to Physics so that students could meet increased science requirements for graduation and better prepare themselves to enter the science-oriented world of today.

Places to go and Things to do

To their followers, the officers provide guidance

It was a time of settlement. The sophomore year of high school for some was an "in-between year." The fun of entering high school and being a freshman was over, but still being an underclassman was hard. With the help of the class officers, the second year at BHS was filled with excitement. The officers, president Joe Johnson, vice-president Bryan Feldman, secretary Mi chelle Gipson, and treasurer Tonya Maguire had to motivate their class to begin to raise money for next year's prom and other class projects. Being able to lead and inspire an entire class provided the officers with the opportunity to develop leadership skills. Though it was a great challenge, Tonya Maguire said, "I would like next year to be a class officer again I find it a lot of fun."

To race fans, Nationals are six days of ecstasy

Was it the cars? The crowds? The noise? The NHRA sponsored Nationals, held over Labor Day weekend at Indianapolis Raceway Park, attracted not only BHS students, but race fans from all over the country. According to Michele Fewell, junior, an employee of Raceway Park, "The crowds seemed to be smaller than they were in other years." The preliminary rounds of competition started the Wednesday before Labor

Day and the finals concluded on Monday. Many BHS students employed by IRP spent the long weekend selling programs, taking tickets, and working concessions. The famous "Lava Machine," with its speeds of well over 200 miles an hour, attracted many of the fans.

Places to go and Things to do

To the daring, rapelling is a life or death situation

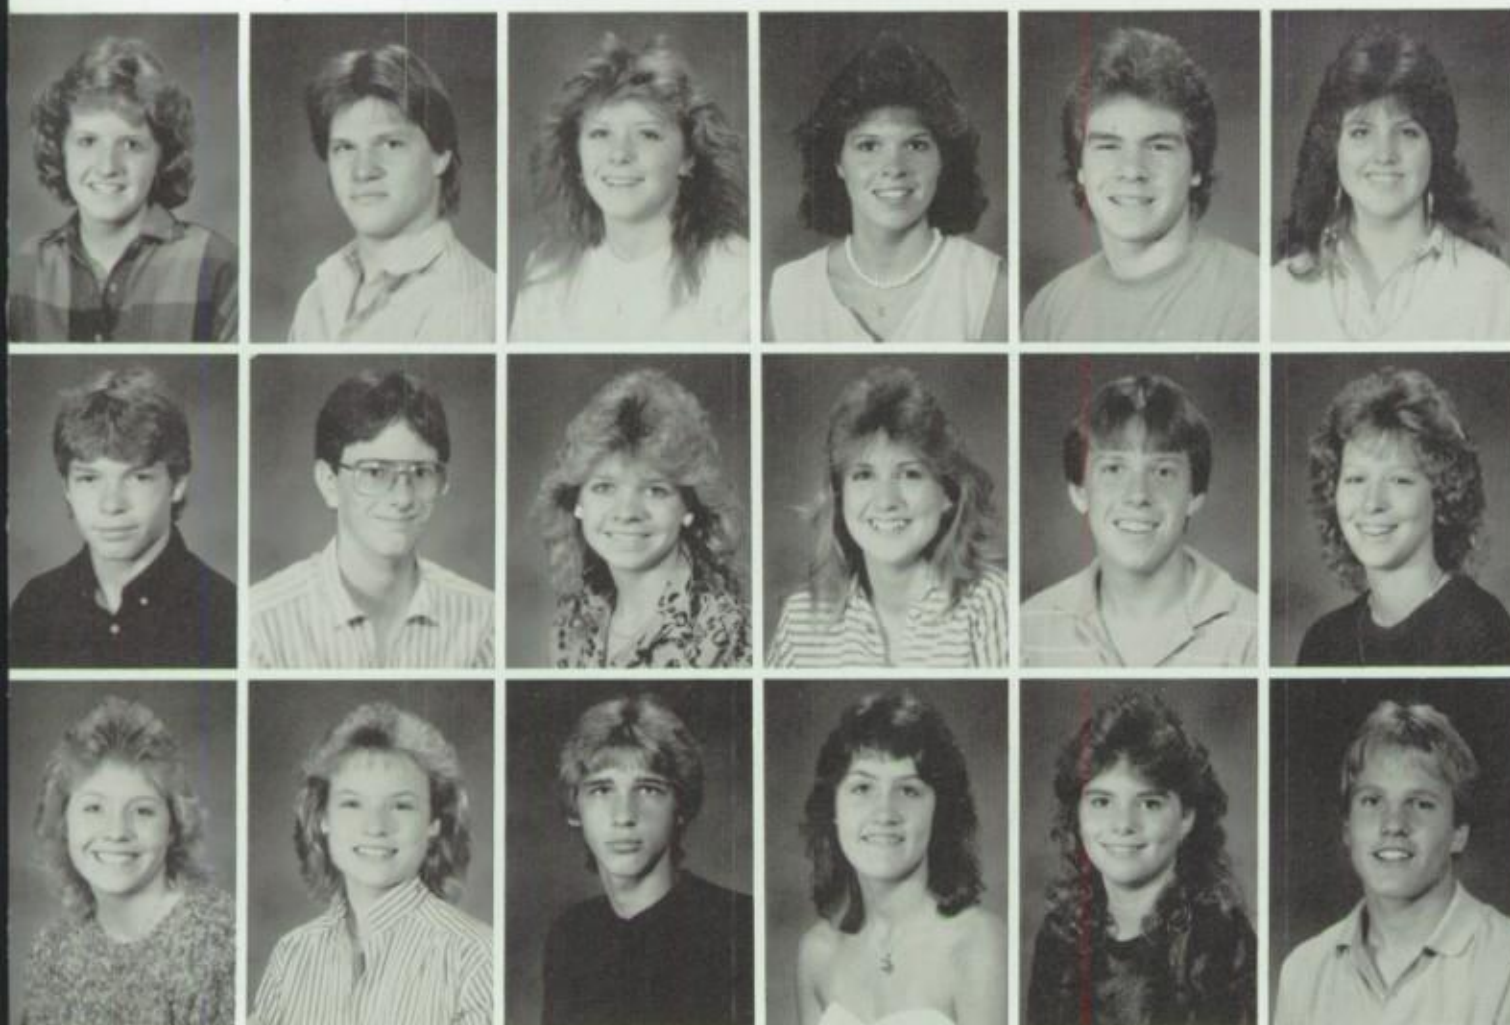

The feeling of accomplishment along with the cool air and the beautiful views attracted the rough-and-ready sportsmen who took a stab at cliff rapelling. The "Indiana Jones" came out in those students who were adventurous enough to try this sport. Although most rapelled for the fun, cliff descending was used to train others for future careers. Some classes involved rapelling from buildings for training as firefighters or for military service. Craig Peoples, senior, commented, "It is a fascinating feeling to jump out of a fifth story window with just a rapelling seat and a rope hooked on it." For the brave few, cliff rapelling was an experience never to be forgotten.

At the end of her rope Sophomore Melissa Hobson takes a stab at cliff rapelling on a church retreat.

To snow-lovers, downhill skiing is exhilarating

The white! The bright! The snow! To many BHS students, the first signs of snow meant more than days out of school, sleds, and bad roads. It was a signal to find the poles and wax own the skis! The "pros" spent their time tackling the slopes of Brown County and various other resorts around the state on weekends. A few traveled to other states, such as Colorado, during Christmas, Spring Break and other extended holidays. The beginners often stayed on the "bunny slopes." Sophomore April Perkins decided, "The first thing a beginner should know is how to stop, and that is one thing I didn't know!" After the skill of stopping was mastered, visions of Olympics flashed by. Unfortunately, these dreams were often shattered after the next tumble.

Places to go and Things to do

To sports fans, professional football is a kick

Sunday, Lazy Sunday. Some students didn't know what to do to cap their weekend. But in the fall, they had no doubt . . . go watch a Colts game! The signing of Gary Hogeboom from Dallas seemed to be the light at the end of the tunnel, but an injury shattered their hopes. Junior Mike Fox decided, "The Colts need to improve a tight end, wide receiver, half back, the offensive line, nose guard, cornerback, safety, field goal kicking, and all other positions except punter." After being defeated by Miami Dolphins, New York Jets, and San Francisco 49ers, many Colts fans believed the best idea was selling the team back to Baltimore, but this was doubtful. The hope of the first round draft choice for quarterback helped keep hopes for a winning season in 1987 alive.

To the strong-minded, spooks are fascinating

Wanna' see something really scary? How about a horror movie or a walk thru a cemetery? During October many students had the scare of their lives in a haunted house! Union Station's "The Haunted Train" opened this year and was immensely popular. Junior Angie Mayfield said, "It wasn't what I expected. You stop in different rooms and watch people doing things." A little closer to home, the "Haunted Barn" had enough ghosts to scare the biggest "horror fans." Eagle Creeks' "Haunted Trails" was a walk thru a maze of trails. Finally, "Scream in the Dark", open at the State Fair Grounds, was sponsored by Campus Life. The tradition of witches, wolves, and zombies was kept alive once again during October.

Danger Ahead The "Haunted Barn" in Brownsburg is ready to scare the wits out of those who dare enter.

Improving all languages

Per se . . . , "Stop grooming", "You look like a cow chewing Cud!", "Keine Kaugummi", "This is not a community project!", "We'll have a short discussion . . . , "D'accord". Sound familiar? Anyone who took an English or foreign language class probably heard these saying from his or her teacher. Not only did students hear these quotes, but they learned a new language or at least improved skills on their native language. Miss Forbes, French teacher, voiced this opinion. "Although English is becoming the international language, French is still used in many international agencies (UN, Red Cross). More and more companies are locating in the U.S.; therefore, it frequently makes getting a job with such companies easier." Taking an English class or foreign language not only improved students writing and speaking skills but gave students the opportunity to experience different cultures through a wide variety of field trips, project, and guest speakers.

Story Circle Miss Forbes' advanced French class discusses "Le Petit Nicholas."

"Stille Nacht" Ms. Tirmenstein's German class sings "Silent Night" at the first annual International Dessert Festival.

Using the past as a guide for the future

Well, let's get back to the subject.", "Irregardless", "Do you have anything for the good of the class?", "This was an act of God . . . , "Hogwash!". Part of history? Apparently so, since many students heard these phrases muttered by their Social Studies department teachers during lecture. The wide variety of Social Study classes gave students a greater knowledge of the world. Classes such as Psychology and Sociology gave students insight of the mind and society around them. U.S. History Government, Economics, World History, and World Geography informed students of other cultures as well as the history of their own culture. Mr. Jim Andrews, History teacher, said, "History teaches us the accomplishments and mistakes, as well as attitudes and values, of our nations past; with hope that through this study and analysis it will promote an even greater future for our nation and people."

The library worked hand in hand with the Social Studies department to give students any needed information. The library was used by almost all departments of study in the school and students learned the necessary skills to enable them to find anything they needed in the library. The library offered many types of print and non-print media so students could use the library for school assignments or personal enjoyment.

To Frosh, officers were examples of class spirit

Oh! No! How am I ever going to find my classes? This was one concern of the freshmen entering BHS. The curriculum was different from the Junior High, but with some guidance from officers, most freshmen adjusted. With all of the responsibilities of being an officer, one would think that holding office would be time-consuming. Quite on the contrary, Erin Pattison, secretary, said, "Being an officer is fun and it doesn't take up a lot of my time." Although the prom was only two years off, raising money for it was not the officers' main concern. They had to concentrate on building their first float. With the help of President Jason Acton, Vice-President Annie Fierek, Secretary Erin Pattison, and Treasurer Maureen Sanders, the transition from junior high to high school was smooth and filled with great memories.

To racers, three and four wheeling is jollity

Dirt, danger, and daring! Combine these and the final product could have been three or four wheeling. Two or three years ago, this type of motor vehicle was quite expensive and uncommon. This year, they could be found almost anywhere. These All-Terrain-Vehicles resembled motorcycles in operation. After much practice, some felt they were ready to enter the world of racing competition. Off-road racing required a lot of money, but could be profitable to those who were good. Senior Rob Althoff said, "I enjoy 3 Wheeling because me and my friends go down to the strip mines near Brazil, Indiana. Here is where there are acres of wilderness trails and jumps." For "wheelers," A.T.V.'s were a fun and relaxing way to use spare time on weekends and vacations.

To snowbunnies, 'mobiling is a winter adventure

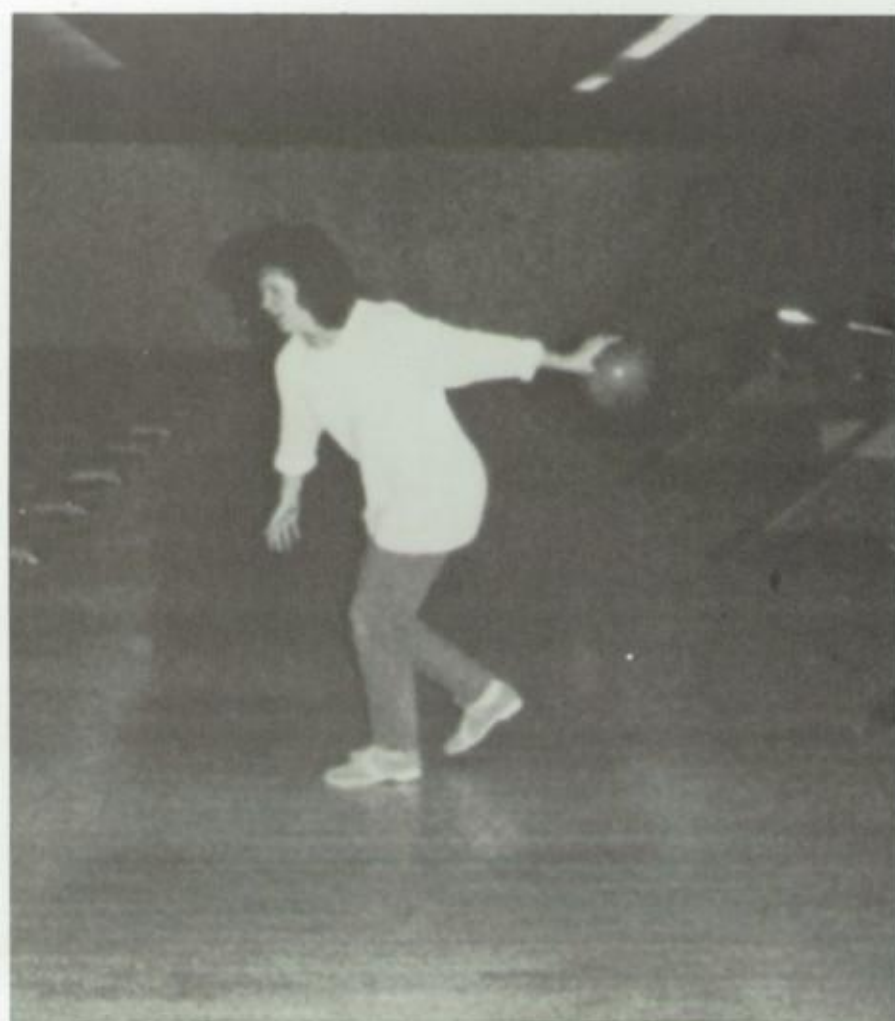

I'm dreaming of a white Christmas . . ." Those who enjoyed lots of snow, a motor, skis, and high speeds had dreams of a white winter. Snowmobiling combined all of these elements associated with winter. The reason for the popularity was quite a mystery, but a few logical explanations could have been the thrill of conquering Mother Nature, wind blowing by the face, or possibly just the danger involved with this sport. Several BHS snowmobilers did not agree that it was particularly dangerous. Sophomore Mike Barrett recalled one misfortune. "I wanted to do a donut in ice. I went in OK, but when I was about 180° around the snowmobile flipped up and threw me about 30 feet away. Nothing happened to me or the snowmobile." The thrill of this sport ended with the first signs of spring.

To keglers, bowling is a "knock 'em down" sport

Strike! It was not only used in baseball, but was also the best word a bowler could hear. Because it appealed to all ages, bowling had gained much popularity over the past few years. BHS students had several bowling alleys to choose from in the area. Lynhurst Bowl, Clermont Lanes, and Raceway Bowl were popular places to "knock down a few pins." For serious bowlers, bowling meant more than pink and purple pants and even more "colorful" shoes; it was a commitment. This type of person spent time at least once a week bowling in a league. Junior Carrie Huntsman explained, "There are many different leagues. For example, there is a junior league which is for 21 and under and within that league there are two groups, a senior league (12-21) and a junior league (12 and younger)." Bowling could really "bowl 'em over."

To young & old, Children's Museum makes learning fun

Remember the field-trips in grade school? Everyone visited Conner Prairie, the zoo, and, of course, the Children's Museum. For many of the students who had entered BHS, the Children's Museum was not high on the list of "places to go." However, it still provided many exhibits that presented learning in an interesting manner. One of the most popular exhibits this year was the lost treasure display which made a brief stop in Indianapolis. The museum had several temporary showings including one that helped "normal" people understand the problems of the handicapped. The museum offered opportunities to learn from the permanent exhibits, such as the carousel and the new Passport to the World. Junior Tracey Ramsey remembered, "My favorite exhibit was the dinosaur exhibit because it looked very realistic."

Developing the mind and body

"Get quiet or we'll do more exercises!", "The situation is this . . .", "Come on! Get out of the locker room!", "I don't want to strike a nerve, but . . .". Almost every student who passed through BHS heard these comments. P.E. and Health were required courses that gave students skills and knowledge of themselves physically and psychologically to prepare students for life. P.E. and Swimming offered students activity to keep them physically fit while Health taught students about the mind and body. Mr. Joe Beeler, Health teacher, remarked, "Hopefully, the in depth study of health will prepare the students to deal with future physical, emotional, and social problems they will encounter in the future." The Resource classes offered help to students with learning problems. With P.E., Swimming, Health, and Resource, students developed physically and mentally to help them achieve their full potential.

Dedicating energy for a superior education

"Invaluable," was all Mrs. Betty Randell said of the parent volunteers. This was only one of the many praises this special group of parents received from staff and faculty this year. The parent volunteers' job description included typing letters and tests, and grading papers. Other volunteers spent much time at computers and tape recording lessons for students with reading disabilities. The English department was especially grateful for the help provided. Aside from typing and grading, these dedicated individuals helped the theatre department by selling tickets and being chaperones on fieldtrips. Without volunteers, much of the extra time teachers had for lesson plans and students would have been lost.

Keeping a healthy environment

Their job seemed never ending. Sweeping floors, cleaning chalkboards, and washing windows kept the custodians and janitors busy before school, after school, and even on weekends. The cafeteria workers put in long hours planning and preparing lunches for over 1200 students and staff members. It was the responsibility of the bus drivers to be sure that students arrived safely at school each morning. Although staff personnel were often taken for granted, Mrs. Ann Glass was able to recognize their importance, "The custodians are indispensable in keeping a clean, safe, environment for the students. The cafeteria workers provide hot, nutritious lunches for both students and staff which enables everyone to work to their ability all day."

Artistic performance in song and dance

Thank goodness for student teachers! When Mrs. Savage began her student teaching she never dreamed that she would have to conduct the entire Christmas Concert due to Mr. Dieckmeyer's illness. She was a welcome addition to a department deeply involved in rehearsals for concerts, cheese and sausage sale, a school musical, the Madrigal dinner, retreats, organizational contests, and solo and ensemble contest. All of these activities led up to the state ISSMA contest early in second semester and finally Spring Spec in May. For members involved in just one or more than one choir, the year provided not only many hours of hard work but also unforgettable memories and new friends.

The time had finally come! the band was on its way to a weekend in Marietta, Ohio, after hosting the Marietta band at Brownsburg for several years. Who would have ever guessed that a six-hour trip could be stretched into a sixteen-hour return trip? After marching in a down pour and through four inches of mud, taking a cruise on the Ohio River, and participating in the Ohio band contest, the weary band members did not envision spending the entire day on the bus. In spite of the difficulties, the band placed second and the guard received first place honors. In addition to that weekend, the band performed at football games, marched in parades, and participated in contests. The contest season drew to a close with the impressive Marching Bands of America presentation at the Hoosier Dome, but the band was not finished. Immediately, members found themselves deeply involved in pit orchestra, jazz band, concert band, pep band, and the solo ensemble contest.

Reporting the news that affects students

Who always gave BHS students information about interesting places to go and exciting things to do? The REVEILLE, of course! This year the paper underwent grave changes, not only in staff members but also in the paper itself. First of all, new advisor Ms. McIntosh took charge of the paper. Little did the staff members know that this was only the first of quite a few other new additions. An additional sports page, two new articles, "Fitness Hints" and "Hidden Heroes," and more issues during the year were added among other things. During Fall Break, part of the staff attended a workshop at Franklin College. What could make being on the REVEILLE staff so enjoyable? When editor-in-chief Scott Dueker was asked this, he replied, "I enjoy seeing the paper go from just ideas on the board to people's hands. Writing stories and taking pictures take a lot of my time, but since both are fun for me, I wouldn't have it any other way."

Making the good times today memories of tomorrow

Drawing layouts, taking pictures, selling ads and year-books, and putting pages together were all activities done by the TEMPO staff. Through many hours of hard work, the staff had to deal with short deadlines and aggravating pressures. When asked how she dealt with the pressures of being on the yearbook staff, first year member Julie Houston answered, "Being on the staff is a lot tougher than I thought it would be, but when the book comes out in May I'll know that all of the work and worry was worth it."

When the school year started, the actual assembly of pages began. After the first deadline, all the color pages had been designed and finished. With every deadline afterward, more and more parts were completed and the book began to take shape. By the time the year ended, the staff had become closer as friends and as a team.

First time ever county win offers encouragement for the future

Six returning lettermen! That fact plus a positive, supportive team attitude started off the tennis season with some extra advantages. Besides optional clinics during the summer, two-hour mandatory practices began in August consisting of drills and match play. Senior Lee Minton felt that more players should participate in the summer clinics. "I think that in order to improve the tennis program at Brownsburg, the players are going to have to go to clinics in the summer and play constantly. On the other hand, I think the school should start some sort of junior team and start the kids playing competitive at a younger age." The highlight of the season was a first place finish in the county tourney. In addition, the netmen had the privilege of playing in one of the best tennis conferences in the state, thus making them better able to face stiff competition in the future.

After years of dreaming, girls' golf becomes a reality

Dan Cull

A green team was on the green this year. Seven girls came out for the first girl's golf team with only two having previously played on a boy's team. They faced a difficult schedule which is what Coach Andrews wanted. He commented, "I feel a difficult schedule gets a team ready for tournaments at the end of the season." The two hour a day practices, starting two weeks before school and consisting of playing the course and hitting practice balls, paid off with a third place in C-SAC and a sixth of twelve in IHSA Sectional. The team had a positive outlook for next year. As sophomore Maggie Booth stated, "I think we did very good for our first year as 'rookies' and next year I think we have a chance at winning Sectional."

Steady improvement is a step toward long-term success

Upperclass leadership — this was an important factor for a very young soccer team composed mainly of freshmen and sophomores. In spite of a season of rebuilding and a tough schedule, the team stuck together with determination. When asked what was the most important aspect of the sport, senior Brent Kiefer replied, 'If can't be done without an all out effort.' This attitude helped them to the highlight of their season — the sectional game with Broadripple, resulting in a 2-1 double overtime loss. As the season progressed, the team came on to play their best soccer of the season. With many returning lettermen and additions from the Junior Soccer league, the team looked forward to continued growth and improvement.

Lady runners highlight season with Hendricks County win

The girls experienced their best season ever and look to be better next season," claimed Coach Reusser. Evenly balanced between newcomers and returning letter winners, the girls completed a tough schedule including 18 state ranked schools. Working hard toward individual and team goals, they achieved an outstanding win as Hendricks County Champs. Individually sophomore Renee Ruiz was Hendricks County Champ and also a Regional qualifier. To the girls, cross country was more than just running. There were emotions and feelings that went along with it. Senior Shari Edwards shared the thoughts which ran through her head during a race. "Should I keep trying hard or not? I also listen for my times and try to figure out what my time will be at what mile mark and the end. I feel a lot of pressure, determination, and anxiety. Running makes me feel very good about myself, mentally and physically."

Harriers keep in shape by running

In spite of inexperience, injuries, and a very tough schedule which included fifteen state ranked teams, the cross country team still kept a positive, competitive attitude and showed continual improvement. Under the leadership of seniors Brett Patterson and Craig Maners, the harriers began their season with a week long camp at Taylor University in August and continued with daily practice sessions of running and weight lifting. Maners pointed out that cross country running was actually a year round commitment. "We run about ten of the twelve months. I run to win but don't always win. It's also good for keeping in shape. The team friendship is also great and we have a lot of fun."

This young team looking to the future found it really had to pull together for success. According to Coach Clifford, "The attitude is definitely coming to the positive side." Throughout their tough schedule, they received much needed experience which led them to an outstanding win against Speedway and a second place in the New Palestine Tourney. Three of the team members received special honors for their efforts. Most Valuable Player sophomore Tanya Maguire also received all Conference First Team. Junior Shannon Reynolds was awarded Best Server. A successful season ends short for the Bulldogs

It was always nice to stay at the top, but, for this year's football team, it was not to be. "We just did not have enough experience. We were a young team and made some mistakes that a young team makes," commented senior Troy Wynkoop. Learning from their mistakes, and showing steady improvement, the team pulled together and finished with a record of 8-3. With only two returning starters, the young players had big shoes to fill. Junior quarterback Jeff Rose expressed the sentiments felt by many. "The first game I was excited and nervous, but, with the excellent coaching staff helping me, the good upfront line blocking, and my receivers making me look good, they all contributed to a winning season for Brownsburg H.S." The experience gained promised an even better season next year.

Experience and hard work pay off

Tough competition, long practices, and hard work do not sound like fun to many people, but for the members of the girls' basketball team, it was a way of life for a season. Because of the six seniors on the team, experience did not pose a problem for the enthusiastic group. Their schedule, however, did. Four of their eighteen opponents were ranked in the top twenty of the state. Even though the competition was extremely challenging, the team kept a positive attitude and played each game with spirit and competitiveness. According to Coach Griffin, "The team spirit and positive attitude made this (team) a most enjoyable group to be around." During the summer, the high school offered a summer league to all of the girls on the team. Two nights a week for two hours the gym was open for the girls to practice and improve their skills. Finally, in October, the team practiced six days a week with two hours of continuous drills. The experience of the seniors helped to make the team positive and at the same time enjoyable to be around.

The way we performed at CSAC and County we could not have performed any better." This was expressed by Coach Horn and many of the other girls on the team. Finishing with a 12-3 record, they took 2nd place in Conference and County. Placing 3rd in Sectional, Sarah DeBoy, Christy Albert, Jennifer Sheets, and Laura Bellville did well enough to go on to the state meet. The team, as a whole, placed 20th in the state. Under the leadership of co-captains Sarah DeBoy and Chris Clark, the girls pulled together and supported each other throughout the season. The team consisted of 9 freshmen, 2 new athletes, 10 returning letter winners, and an exchange student, senior Kelly Bacon. She commented, "The swim program was a lot harder and longer than anything I've done before. I felt the team members supported each other well and that the season was very successful considering that there were a lot of new members. Everybody did a great job and I made a lot of friends."

Training and experience help individual improvement

The training seemed endless; and being a senior on the wrestling team, Jeff Starkey felt he had to put forth more effort than the others. "As a senior, you strive a little harder, knowing it is all over after this year." The wrestlers had weight training over the summer to keep them in shape. This training not only benefited the wrestlers physically, but also individually as Cindy Starkey replied about her son, Jeff. "It has been good for Jeff as far as self-discipline goes. He has been able to fulfill his potential as an athlete." As the season approached, they began practicing their moves after school for two hours each day. The team's coach, Bob Freije, said the majority of the wrestlers, especially the upperclassmen, had improved from last year. Because of the tough competitions, the wrestling team won few meets but they did their best individually.

Hard work pays off with 3 trophies for the first time

Tough competitions and long hours of practice boosted the cheerleaders into the top 3% of squads in the United States. Beginning with camp in July, the girls worked every day learning new routines and fundamentals. At the end of each day they competed and at the end of each week, there was a competition for the best squad. Placing well, the girls tied for best squad with Terre Haute South, which qualified them for Nationals. Also, there were 13 finalists chosen for the title of All-American Cheerleader. Of the thirteen, 3 were juniors Shannon Rice, Christina Hawtin, and the winner, Christy Beeler. Some of their other accomplishments were a 1st at Hendricks County Fair, a 2nd at Marion County Fair with Spirit Award, and a 5th at State Fair. Senior Leslie Bengé commented on what helped the cheerleading squad do so well. "This year we set our goals high in which our highest goal was to go to Nationals. At practice we worked together as a team many long hard hours. We hated the phrase 'just one more time girls!', but all that work paid off to make the last year for us seniors great!"

Broken pool doesn't break team spirit

Have team, will travel! What an apt description for the Bulldog tankmen. What started out as a good season for the young team soon turned into a nightmare for the swimmers, their coaches, and their parents. A broken heater left unrepaired and unreplaced for a month made it necessary for limited practices to be held at Tri West and the Natatorium. The mixed up unpredictable practice times made it impossible for the boys to maintain their ordinary schedules of activities and study time. Several dual meets and, worst of all, C-SAC Conference had to be rescheduled at the pools of opponents. But in spite of these difficulties, the swimmers continued to improve their times with each meet. Individual goals were set including that of junior Chris Unruh for a State Championship in diving. "Although I would like to have had more competition during the season, I plan on winning the state meet in February if everything goes right." One bright spot in the season was the addition of a much needed assistant coach in the person of '82 graduate and swim team member Dave Robinson. A positive attitude against all odds was a tribute to this team.

Team gains experience through wins and losses

"New" was a key word for this year's basketball team. Of last year's team, only 2 were returning lettermen. Not only were there a lot of new faces, but there were also many new opponents for the young team. These opponents appeared on a new schedule which was changed to pick up five C-SAC teams. This, coupled with a lack of experience, had no bearing on the team unity. "We enjoy the time we spend together as a team," said Coach Howard Leedy. Senior Mike Johnson also commented on the unity of this year's team, "The team goes out to Coach Leedy's house at the beginning of the season, on New Year's Eve, and before sectional games. Also, at the beginning of the season this year the team went and saw the movie Hoosiers together. Even though unity was a major factor this year, the heartbreaking last second losses, always hard to accept and understand, gave proof that the team could look forward to an exciting future.

MARY KAY COSMETICS
Mary Anne Roseman

Because Jenny Roseman's mother was a Mary Kay Cosmetic Distributor, this senior spent part of her spare time helping with the operation of the business. In addition to taking orders and making deliveries, she also helped with the inventory. Like Jenny, many other students worked due to necessity or need of extra money. Students working part-time, only on weekends, or full time found work not only in Brownsburg, but in surrounding cities and downtown Indianapolis. A few even went to stay with relatives in other states.

Hoosier Girl's State is a privilege only a few lucky people get the opportunity to experience. Jennifer Wycoff was one of these lucky people because she, along with Donna Miley and Chris Clark, was chosen as a delegate to participate in this. During this past summer Jennifer also had the opportunity of riding in the Fourth of July parade as a representative of Girls' State. At Girls' State, which was held at Indiana State, the girls held elections and ran a form of government. Through this the Hoosier girls learned more about the state and how it is run.

Fruity Pebbles in the parking lot? Seniors Jim Foreman and Doug Smith have no qualms about eating their breakfast on the grass outside the student parking lot. They showed their originality by bringing all the items necessary for a complete breakfast. Donuts, milk, Fruity Pebbles, a table, two chairs, bowls and spoons were all essentials to make their meal a success. Now it seems it has become a trend for students to go out for breakfast before coming to school. Several students enjoy McDonald's, Wendy's or even Waffle House before coming to school.

Noble Roman's[®] PIZZA

The Deep-Dish Sicilian Pizza

It began in Sicily as a delicious yet inexpensive meal. A distinctly American flavor was added in the old Italian neighborhoods of New York and Chicago. Today, Noble Roman's Deep-Dish Sicilian is authentic Italian/American pizza. It has a thick, light crust, placed in an old-fashioned rectangular pan, then topped with specially-blended cheeses, premium meats, fresh vegetables and just the right amount of tangy sauce. It's always made from scratch with fresh, wholesome ingredients and baked to perfection in the Noble Roman's tradition. It began in Sicily centuries ago. But we made it what it is today: Noble Roman's Deep-Dish Sicilian pizza.

Sophomore Sara Ashby prepares to set off several bunches of balloons celebrating the 50th birthday of the Junior Classical League. Sara, along with other Brownsburg students, enjoyed a week of fun at the National Latin Convention. This was held on the Indiana University campus August 2 through

8. The Convention gave these students the opportunity to meet new people and make new friends from all over the United States. During the week, Latin students participated in academic contests, writing contests, art contests, athletic competitions, talent contests, and brain game competitions.

SHEAR CIRCUS

Feathered. Stair-stepped. Spiked. Bobbed. The past year's hairstyles made a fashion statement. Hairstyles were a way of expressing individuality. Trevor Patton, senior, sported a new wave style that combined a spiked and shaved look. A new trend in hairstyles was bleaching and coloring one's hair. Perming remained another popular alternative for those students who wanted curls. With one glance, the personalities of each BHS student was revealed by his hair and individual taste was expressed.

The Brownsburg Police took an interest in many activities involving the students of BHS. The department members participated in parades in town, supervised Bulldog sports events, and sponsored PAL club boxing, in which many high school students participated. Patrolman Steve Price and Officer Ray Wright enjoyed themselves while working home basketball games. Officer Wright, who served with the Hendrick's County Sheriff's Dept. for 11 years, and has been with the Brownsburg Police Dept. for 2½ years, said, "They're fun. I enjoy the games and people. You rarely have a problem."

This year the social studies department offered a new class called Applied Economics. Economics is a required course for all seniors, and the Applied Economics class gave students the option to participate in a class in which the principles of economics were applied to real life situations. Brett Patterson sold the first share of stock in Brownsburg Developed Products to Dr. Herrold, superintendent of schools. According to Mr. Frank Clark, who teaches the Applied Economics classes, this was the first step in getting the corporation started.

Everyone had dreams of going down in history for accomplishing something no one else had ever done before. For the BHS Wrestlettes, those dreams came true when they entered The Guinness Book of World Records on Saturday, Nov. 22. The girls completed the world's first twenty-four hour non-stop tagteam wrestling match to go down in history. This event was organized by Mr. Ken Crebbe to help raise money for new uniforms. In honor of the girls that participated their names were posted in the lunch-room hallway.

Participation in a particular sport many times involved whole families, as in the case of the Unruh's. Kari, a '84 graduate and currently a student at Oral Roberts University, taught swimming lessons to children. Gaye, a senior, was a member of the BHS swim team as well as a manager. In addition, she was an instructor in the Learn-to-Swim program. Chris, a junior, began swimming competitively as a very small boy and in junior high began diving. This year in his pursuit of a state diving title, he set numerous team, pool, and county records.

Historical Union Station was this year's setting for the downtown Indianapolis ice-skating rink. The rink, usually located at the Soldiers and Sailors Monument, had to be moved to Union Station near the parking garage due to the restoration at the Circle. Many BHS students took the opportunity to visit the rink over Christmas break on outings with family or friends. Among them was senior Sarah DeBoy. Skaters could rent skates at the rink or they could bring their own.

When it comes to IU and Purdue, the rivalry existed not only in the student body, but in the alumni on the faculty as well. Practical jokes were in abundance after games between the two schools, to say nothing of the red/white and the gold/black being sported by various teachers. Assistant Principal Steve Heck even went so far as to attach a button to his office door which played the IU fight song. In Mr. Schermer's math classes, those on the losing side had to suffer the ultimate humiliation after the IU football defeat by bowing twenty times while chanting, "Hail Purdue."

Many BHS athletes were required to make sacrifices in order to excel in their sport. Junior Harold Allen not only participated in wrestling, but also in football and baseball. He said, "Wrestling is the toughest sport I've ever participated in. It requires you to run a lot and watch what you eat and even at times eating nothing for days to make weight." When asked if he favored any one sport, Harold stated, "I like football better than wrestling and baseball. I like the contact of football, but wrestling is a better conditioning sport."

Freshman Carolyn Kidwell displays her project for Mr. Jones' geometry class. The students were studying tessellations, or tiling, or equal objects. Tiling is covering a surface with the same shape over and over again without leaving any area between. Mr. Jones said, "The simplest tiling would be squares like you would find in a tub or shower. It can get very complicated. There are certain geometric rules to follow to produce complex pictures." The assignment was to make an original design following these rules. According to Mr. Jones, the projects were successful.

"The Best For Less"

Is blood really thicker than water? Apparently seniors Margaret Yeager and Leslie Bengt thought so, being first cousins and also friends. Some of the close-knit families in the Brownsburg area were lucky enough to have cousins, brothers, sisters, and in-laws attend BHS this year. Aside from seeing each other between classes and at extracurricular activities, these few privileged students were also able to spend holidays and other special occasions together. The halls of BHS were filled with almost as many relatives and family members as friends and acquaintances.

Freshman Holly Tudor devoted much of her spare time to the freshman cheerleading squad. The cheerleaders cheered at freshman football games and freshman boys basketball games. The girls participated in the State Fair Cheerleading Contest and the Marion County Fair Cheerleading Contest. They also won first place at the Montgomery County Fair. During the summer, the cheerleaders attended a camp at Vincennes University where Kari Crawford was named Miss Gymnast and the entire squad won the spirit stick for showing the most enthusiasm.

The 1986 Tempo was produced and printed by the Printing and Publishing Division of Jostens located in Clarksville, Tennessee. The Plant Consultant was Valerie Ezell, the Jostens Representative Lance Baker, and the manager of East Central Sales and Support Center Dick Maurer. The 1200 copies of the 192 page book were printed on 80 lbs. Gloss 191 paper stock, with the first 16 pages on Ripple 183. Body copy and picture captions were in type #47, Benguiat Bold. Main headlines were in 30 point italics. The cover design was drawn by Todd Giles, a 1986 graduate and IU art student.

The Tempo Staff would like to give special thanks to Visual Sports, Joe Otto, The Guide, Douglas Studios, Interstate Studios, and numerous individuals who supplied the staff with photographs.

Jearmy,
I really had fun driving (sometimes) to school with ya. Well have to go and drink some water sometime.

Love,
Jennifer K.

Jearmy,
I glad we've met.
You don't talk as much as you did 2 yrs ago (to me) you talk a lot now!
I hope you have a great summer (Party) maybe see ya! Love,
Candy

Remember when you use to play basketball with my brother?

Jearmy,

you are a stay 3'

smile

campus!

Love,
Charlotte

I am really glad I got to know you. You are a sweetie.
Remember that I can undoubtedly out-drink you. Thanks for the good times.

Genes!

GERM,

Hey babe' how are you?
D'nt GREAT! Well we'll know each other for along time + now, but we just really started talking last year! You a really great + crazy
guy to ~~be~~ hang out w!
Have a great summer
may all your dreams and wishes come true. Have fun skatin' this summer
but don't kill yourself!

Keep in touch!

PARTY
NAKED!

Louisa,
"gg" Cindy
Love
(CRASH)

P.S. will ya still teach me how to drop in?!! that would just be so begs!

Evening? I've known for a long time. Take it slow and easy and may all your ups and downs be in fact, and do yourself a favor and listen to every master move ~~up~~ for Mike/one "gg"
"gg"

Jeremy (Sperm Cell)

Well it's been one crazy year in Math w/ you sitting next to me. I wish you were going to be a senior next year. Do me a favor, don't chew on your hair this summer & try to get your pants sewed up!
Just joking. Hey ~~old~~ dude, have a cool summer and stay in/out of trouble.

BESTIE
BOYS

Journal,

My sweets!
Help we are no longer underclassman's all Big Bad Juniors. It really doesn't seem like it though, does it?
~~who~~ I wish you the best of luck & may all of your dreams
come true!

Love always,
Chantal
Hawen
Ramey
